It is well known that I have always labored for the success of the Conservative party; that I have heartly concurred in the action of Conventions of my party when properly called and organized, and have supported with all my strength and influence ince of said Conventions; but now, when I see that party divided and torn asunder; when those who have formally acted torether in unity and harmony, arrayed the feelings indulged, when I see the prospects of the party enshrouded to doubt and uncertainty, and leving as I do. with a large proportion of my fellow-citizens, that a convention called by either wing can have rone other effect than that of still further dividing our people and entailing defeat upon our cause, and when I am carled upon by very our cause, and when I am catled up in by very many of the intelligent and patriotic voters who flatter me by expressing the belief that I may be the means of nature our divided ranks and thus restore peace and harmony, and who have so politely and earnestly invited me to announce myself as a candidate, I feel that I have not the right to

My position on most matters of national policy is well understood. In a letter addressed to the editor of the Portsmouth Times, to be found in the issue of August 7, 1878, my views were freely and fully sed, and since that time no new developents have arisen to cause me to materially change

Dr. Tanner Contradicts a Lecturer.

At the close of her Sunday-morning lecture in Republican Hall, New York city, Emma Hardinge Britton, the spiritualisti medium, commented upon Dr. Tanner's fast. She said that she believed that Dr. Tanner was kept alive by the air of this city. He had always lived in a very thinly-populated part of the country, and came to this city because he knew the air was full of material sufficient to yield sustenance for some time. Thousands were about him, filing the air with a new animal life. At this point a man in the audience requested permission to speak to her. This was permitted, and after consulting with the lecturess he nodded in the direction of the seat he had A RMISTEAD BROTHERS, BALTIMORE, NOTE- AND BILL-BROKERS, 12

ADELATE NELLSON.

General Bryan Grimes was the son of Bryan Grimes, Esq., who was long a resident of Raleigh, and was about fifty-one years of age. He was born at Washington, educated partly in Raleigh, and graduated at Chapet Hill in 1848 with the late Major Seaton Gales and Major R. S. Tucker, of this city. He subsequently turned his at-tention to farming, and before the war beme one of the successful farmers in his section, and ranked des rvedly high among the agriculturists of the State. He entered the Confederate service at the bresking out of the war as major, and given at Pope's Theatre, at which all the passed through that terrible ordeal with distinguished honor, not only winning laurels for himself, but rendering still more illustrious the name and fame of North Carolina soldiery in that grand struggle for independence. Senator Butler has written a letter endorsing the aims of the society.

Some eleven years ago Henry Youngs, wealthy citizen of Massachusetts, died, leaving a large property, the principal part of which was willed to his sons-Henry and Theophilus. Theophilus served in the army and afterwards lived in several cities his last known residence being in Boston, where he had a wife and children. On the 13th of May, 1875, he left his wife, and she has not seen him since. In February, 1876, the body of a man was found in Boston harbor, and Mrs. Youngs and several other persons identified it as that of her husband. She soon after began a suit against her brother-in-law to re-cover her husband's share of the cover her husband's share of the estate, which had not been settled. Several persons then testified that Theophilu was not dad, and that they had seen him after the date of the alleged recovery of his body. A few days ago a man presented himself in Boston who said that he was Theophilus Youngs, explaining his ab-sence by alleging that he had been in the Black Hills country. A number of persons who used to know him said that they iden-tified him beyond doubt. He, however, end not visit his wife, who professes continued love for him, and she says that his reported return is only a trick. Meanwhile it is said that the legal expenses in connection with the settlement of the estate have esten up the greater part of it.

A Singular Tragedy.

BOSTON, MASS., August 16. - John C. Taylor and wife, of Springfield, were out row-ing this afternoon with Mrs. H. S. South-worth and another lady on the Connecticut rivet. Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Southworth had the oats, while the other ladies were in the stern. Suddenly Mrs. Taylor jumped overboard. The husband sprang after her, and both were drowned. The theory as to the cause of Mrs. Taylor's act are insanity or doubtful relations of her husband with LOCAL MATTERS.

DECISION IN THE CASE OF THE DOLLAR SAVINGS BANK — An opinion was filed yesterday in the United States District Court here by Judge Hughes in the case of the trustees of the Dollar Savings Bank of Rich-mond against its late directors.

The bank failed in September, 1873, and was adjudicated a bankrupt in March, 1874. It had lost all its capital, and was in debt to the amount of $135,000, as shown by the proofs in bankruptcy. It surrendered very meagre assets, the bankruptcy court having been able as yet to collect and distribute only some $25,000 to depositors.

This is a suit in equity, brought to sub-ject the directors to joint and several flabil-ity for the losses. The bill charges a series of acts ultra vires in the years 1872 and 1873, consisting of declarations and pay-ments of dividends out of capital and deposits to the amount of $22,000, although the books showed that similar unlawful dividends had been previously paid to the amount of $39,500. It charges habitual and gross negligence on the part of all the directors and malfeasance on the part of a pottion of them and of the executive officers of the bank. It charges and sets out various losses by overdrafts, defaults. &c., amounting in the aggregate to $102,000, and dings. insists that they would not have occurred but for the negligence of the directors. It prays that the directors may be required to make good the losses charged to have happened through their negligence.

Defendants demurred to the bill on the ground that the trustees in bankruptey ould not maintain suit for such a claim; that the directors could not be held jointly liable for such losses as are charged; and that the proper proceeding was not in equity against all the directors, but at law to mak. each director liable for his own acts.

FINE PORTRAITS-PASTEL-PAINTING. Yesterday a Dispatch reporter inspected the portraits of Rev. Dr. Charles Minnigerode, the late William Barrett, and Edward McCarthy, deceased, at the gallery of Mr. M. J. Powers, the well-known daguerrean artist, on Main street between Eighth and Ninth. These are pastel portraits taken from photographs, and each has a history. Those of Dr. Minnigerode and Mr. Barrett were ordered for and will adorn the walls of St. Paul's Church Home for Aged Ladies. Of this most deserving fined $1. charity Dr. Minnigerode was the founder, and it was liberally endowed through the muniticence of Mr. Barrett. The portrait of Mr. McCarthy was ordered by McCarthy Council of the Royal Arcanum. These portraits are life-like and are finished in the highest style of the photographic art. are perfect—almost speaking efficies of the respected persons whom they represent. That of Rev. Dr. Minnigerode is particu-larly faithful. From the lifeless canvas the intellectual face is lighted up with a smiling look, and the tips seem as if about o part and give utterance to words of wisdom, charity, and fatherly counsel. The expression of the faces of Messrs. Mc-Carthy and Barrett are also excel-lent. The artist bad good subjects, and well has his work been performed. No one who ever knew and loved these estimable and lamented gentlemen in the fesh would fail to recognize them at the first glance. Pastel painting, while a difficult. is fast becoming a most popular style of portrait-painting. These efforts of Mr. Powers prove that Richmond is not behind her sister cities in keeping pace with all progress made in photography as a fine art.

WHO IS MRS. WINSLOW?

As this question is frequently asked, we will shu ply say that she is a lady who for upwards of thirty years has untiringly devoted her time and talents as female physician and nurse principally smong children. She has especially studied the constitution and wants of this numerous class, and as a re-suit of this effort, and practical knowledge shrained in a lifetime spent as murse and physician she has compounded a Soothing Syrup for children beething It operates like magic—giving rest and beath—and it operates the magnetic artists, moreover, sure to regulate the bowels. In consequence of this article Mrs. Winslow is desoming world-renowned as a henefactor of her mee: shill dren certainly do miss if and bless her; especially is this the case in this city. Vast quantities of the Soothing Syrup are Dailly sold and meetinese. We trink Mrs. Wineless has immortalized her name by this invaluable article, and we sincorely believe thousands of children have been saved from an early grave by its timely use, and that millions yet unborn will share its benefits and unite in calling her blessed. No MIGHER has discharged her duty to her suffering lattle one, in our opinion, until she has given it the benefit of Mrs. Window's Sociling Syrup.
